FARMERS AND HUNTERS

The Bay pays full cash prices for hides, horse hair and seneca root. Bring them in with your fur or send them with a neighbor.

Bush and jack rabbits are needed. Hunt them for good sport and good profits, too.

CASH at the BAY means (extra) money . . .

If you are a regular customer at The Bay, you know that Cash at The Bay does put more money in your pocket. If you have sold elsewhere—then you will want to know why Cash at The Bay is best for you, too. Here are some of the reasons—they are important—think about them.

The Bay guarantees full market value for your whole catch. They don't just quote high for a pelt or two—you receive the best price for all pelts.

You do your own selling when you deal with The Bay. There are no deductions for royalties or commissions.

At The Bay you receive every cent your fur is worth. It is not sold together with other trappers' at an average price. If you have good fur, you and you alone get the benefit.

At The Bay you do not wait for your money—you do not risk market declines by slow selling. When you sell at The Bay, you sell when you want to sell—when you feel that fur is in best demand.

If you wish to ship, shipping charges are paid by The Bay. Remember, parcels weighing up to 10 lbs. must be forwarded by parcel post for full refund.

Also, on request, your fur (except damp or fleshy pelts) will be held for ten days for price approval.

It's the net cash to you that counts. Know where you stand—sell for Cash at The Bay.

OBEY THE GAME LAWS!

Invest in the Future—Yours as well as the Country's Wildlife

MINK STILL WITH THE LEADERS

Mink can again be counted upon as an important income producer. While prices may be somewhat lower, wild mink will continue to be one of the most profitable items for Canadian trappers.

Concentrate on trapping your mink just as soon as they are prime in the late fall and early winter, and you will probably more than make up for the easier prices. Top quality prime mink always bring far more money.

GOOD QUALITY BEAVER ARE NEEDED

Again, The Bay requires all the good quality beaver they can buy for its special European markets. This means that you can cash in at The Bay, this year, by really concentrating on beaver trapping during the winter months. Don't wait until open water—trap your beaver in the winter when quality is at its very best—the kind of beaver that always bring premium prices at The Bay.

TRAP SQUIRREL AND ERMINE

The ever-profitable bush ermine and squirrel from the Prairie Provinces are needed, too. Trap your share before the snow is too deep. Long-tail ermine, although lower in price, is still a good money maker.

REMEMBER!

Short-haired or long-haired fur—The Bay's the place to sell. Lynx, fox, coyotes, badger, etc., are still needed by the trimming trade. This year there is a market for all articles.

GET THE BEST PRICES

To get the best prices for every skin, trap each fur bearer before it is past its prime. Remember, except for muskrats, early winter time is trapping time. Premium prices are never paid for late-caught skins.

Proper handling of beaver pelts is of great importance and The Bay has prepared notes for the guidance of less professional trappers. It is free for the asking.

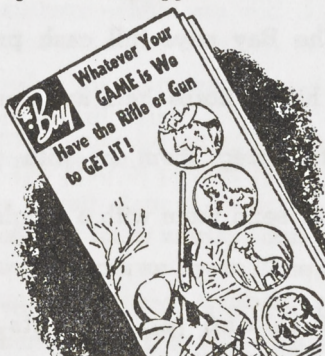

For the best deal—sell to
The Bay

When shipping, be sure to include your name, address and contents on the outside of the parcel. Farmers in certain Provinces do not need a licence. In all other instances, licence or permit numbers should also be noted.

WRITE FOR OUR NEW EQUIPMENT CATALOGUE

The Bay can outfit you completely—traps, guns, ammunition, snare wire, etc. Select what you need and The Bay will ship it the day your order is received. All equipment carries The Bay's guarantee of quality—truly tested over many years of experience in servicing Canadian trappers.
